Police Investigation of Case of Mysterious Mr. Vanderlip's Predictions About Receipts | Maryland Division Condemns the Sending Assault and Robbery.

Soldier Lately Returned From Santingo the Victim-Military Company Organized-Briefs.

> Evening Star Bureau, No. 727 King Street. Bell Telephone No. 106,

ALEXANDRIA, Va., May 23, 1899. The police department is engaged in investigating the story of a mysterious night assault and robbery which was communicated to the officials at a late hour last night. Jerry Hansborough, who has just returned home from Santiago, where he was engaged in the military service of the United States, was found on South Henry street about 11 o'clock last night severely injured. He stated to Sergeant Smith, who shortly arrived, that he had been attacked by two men who approached him from the rear, knocked him down and made off, hav ing secured all the money on his person, which, he stated, amounted to $386. The affair occurred near the Southern railway round house. Officer Atkinson was dispatched to see Hansborough this morning. He had recovered and was able to throw such light on the matter as will probably lead to the arrest of two men who were with him during the day. These men were seen following_Hansborough down Henry street, and, it is now ascertained, have gone

Government Funds on Deposit in the Banks - Searcity of Paper Money.

The prediction of Assistant Secretary Vanderlip last week that receipts would soon balance expenditures at the treasury has been fully verified by the result. The cash balance, which stood a week ago at $250,988,927, rose Saturday to $264,110,318, and the temporary deficit for the month fell from $2,048,868 to $1,411,650. This improvement took place in the face of the payment of most of the pensions for the month and large drafts for interest on the public debt. The receipts for the week were about $9.900,000, and the average daily receipts during May have reached $1,664,000 for each business day. This indicates total receipts for the month of about $43,500,000, in spite of a holiday, in addition to four Sundays. The customs receipts, which have thus far been $12,451,889, will be about $18,-000,000 for the complete month. The in-ternal revenue receipts, which have been $16,044,850, will be about $23,500,000, and the miscellaneous receipts will provide the remainder of the total collections from ordinary sources.

The completion of the payment for the Philippines has closed most of the large extraordinary items on account of the Spanish war, although many sums are still due for the completion of contracts and the maintenance of garrisons.

Military Expenses Falling Off. The expenses of the War Department have fallen off in a marked degree this month, as compared with April. The amount for the first twenty days has been $7,510,000. while the amount for the first twenty days of April was $10,495,000. The navy expenses have increased for the twenty days from $3,350,000 to $5,845,000. The net reduction $3,350,000 to $3,845,000. The net reduction for both departments is about $2,500,000, and if it is maintained throughout the month will reduce the increased military expenses on account of garrisons and war contracts to about $12,000,000 per month. This is not far beyond the proceeds of the new revenue law, and the difference is likely to be made up by the excess of receipts under previous laws above the requirements of the peace establishment.

Government Funds in the Banks. The surplus of government funds at pres ent is indicated by the fact that the government still has on deposit in the national banks $83,261,199. This includes about $5,-000,000 to the credit of disbursing officers eaving about $78,000,000 in the nature of a leaving about $78,000,000 in the nature of a voluntary deposit to prevent stringency in the money market.

It has been the policy of Secretary Gage and Treasurer Roberts to reduce some of the largest deposits in the New York banks, especially the City National and Hanover National, in order to make good to the treasury the gold surrendered in the Philippine payments by drawing it ultimately from the money in the banks. It is not proposed, however, to carry this policy Philippine payments by drawing it of mately from the money in the banks. It is not proposed, however, to carry this policy to a point which will cause embarrassment in the money market. The future action of the department will depend to a considerable extent upon the state of the receipts. So long as they are about equal to expenditures, the banks will not be asked to surrender the public funds in their keeping. If present indications should be disappointed in any manner, and the cash in the treasury should decline materially, the reserve in the banks would be drawn upon to make it good. This would not operate to contract the volume of money if the drafts upon the banks were not greater than the excess of disbursements over receipts. The xcess of disbursements over receipts. excess of distursements were received with the banks will not be materially reduced for many weeks, after the Philippine payment has been covered, which will leave the general deposits in the banks at about $70,000,000.

Searcity of Paper Money. The treasury would not be compelled to call upon the banks for any part of the deposits simply for the purpose of increasing its net balance. The cash carried Saturday included $226,450,773 in gold coin and bullion, $13,230,545 in United States notes, $867,616 in Sherman treasury notes, and $3,899,729 in silver certificates. It is the scarcity of paper rather than the need of cash which will stimulate reduction of the bank deposits if a reduction becomes neces-sary. The small margin of paper has been giving the treasury officials some anxiety, especially in view of the anticipated pres-sure for small notes when the crop-moving season begins. Calls upon the banks for the surrender of their deposits will be the only available means of obtaining paper to meet the demand. This will be only wash-ing one hand with the other to a certain extent, since it is the banks principally which make the calls for paper upon the treasury, but some increase of paper might be possible where it is most needed by calling it in from sections where it is not Decrease in Bank Note Circulation. Treasurer Roberts has been endeavoring o persuade some of the national banks to issue notes for the accommodation of their patrons and to convert issues of twenties and higher denominations into notes for $5. Several banks have promised to take this step, but the tendency of the bank-note circulation has been downward upon the whole for the last two or three months.

The total circulation has fallen only from $243,735,105 at the close of 1808 to $242,275.

186 on Saturday last; but the tendency to withdraw circulation has been much more content of the content of th narked than these figures would indicate Much of the circulation now outstanding is covered by lawful money for the purpose of retirement, and the notes will be caneled as fast as they reach the treasury. The magnitude of this movement is indi-cated by the fact that the bonds on deposit to secure circulation have fallen from $239,-942,850 at the close of 1898 to $230,983,810 on Saturday last. This is a loss of nearly $9,000,000, of which $1,200,000 has occurred since the close of April.

The deposit of new 3 per cent bonds to secure circulation has increased slightly, but both classes of 4 per cents have failen. and the new 4's, of which $162,000,000 are outstanding, were on deposit on Saturday to secure circulation to the amount of only $17,979,250. The occasion of this downward movement was not the redundancy of the currency, but the lack of profit upon circulation under present laws in view of the nigh price at which the bonds fell in the Denial of Ill-Feeling Over Affairs at Manila.

Capt. Lieut. Von Rebeur-Paschwitz, naval attache of the German embassy, has recently made several complimentary statements in regard to the American navy. officers, men and ships. He is the officer who made such a favorable report to the German admiralty concerning the consideration shown him by American naval circles during the Spanish war, that it brought a strong letter of thanks from the minister of marine of Germany to Secretary Long. and to some extent offset the tension aris-ing over alleged differences between the American and German naval officers in the Philippines. Referring to the operations in the Philippines, Capt. Rebeur-Paschwitz "I have never yet heard from any German officer a word of ill-feeling over affairs at Manila. While at home recently I met a number of our officers who were just out from the Philippines, and who had been stationed on our ships throughout the war. They spoke most cordially of American officers, and of the fraternizing of your sailors and ours. There is not the slightest feeling, I can assure you, among German naval officers towards their brother officers on this side. Personally, I look upon Dewey as a fine type of the sailor-gentle-man; quiet, modest, but with plenty of energy. And I wish your people could unenergy. And I wish your people could understand that we look upon Admiral Von Deiderichs, whom I know personally, in much the same way; not as he has sometimes been represented in this country, but times been represented in this country, but as the quiet sailor; the last man in the world to give needless offense, and a splendid type of the gentleman afloat. With two such men, it is unfortunate that exaggeration has created some ill-feeling. and I know German officers do not share it and I know German omeers do not share it and will be glad to see it disappear. I would like to see some of our naval train-ing ships come to American waters, visit-ing Norfolk and possibly Annapolis, so that our young sailors could get an idea of the energy and ingenuity shown all through the American navy."
